FOUNDING BOARD MEMBERS

ROBERT J. MORIN, M.D., PRESIDENT

Robert Morin is a board certified plastic surgeon, craniofacial surgeon and pediatric plastic surgeon. Dr. Morin has a special interest in the complex reconstruction of the face, nose and ears. He has an extensive amount of experience operating on children with facial abnormalities and he has been a part of many surgical missions to developing countries in the past. In the United States, Dr. Morin operates in Manhattan and northern New Jersey, and he is well known for his excellent results in rhinoplasty. He also works closely with neurosurgeons, surgical oncologists, dermatologists and neonatologists in order to restore proper form and function to patients with traumatic injuries, cancer and congenital abnormalities.

SUSAN KIM, CEO

Sue Kim has worked for numerous pharmaceutical and medical companies since graduating from Penn State. She also has an extensive amount of experience with fundraising in the small business, start-up and non-profit industries. Ms. Kim works closely with the United Nations, fostering relationships with biotech and pharmaceutical companies to help deliver goods and services to countries in need. In the past, she has been involved with numerous volunteer organizations and charities that focus on helping children. Sue is currently the Vice President of Business Development at Scarguard Labs.

OUR PHILOSOPHY

The primary goal of Developing Faces is to utilize the experience and expertise of the medical professionals in the organization in order to deliver the highest quality of surgical care in developing countries. All of the surgeons involved in Developing Faces are board certified in their specialty within the United States. In addition, all surgeons have extensive experience operating outside of the United States in less than ideal conditions. Past surgical missions taken by board members have involved the countries of Colombia, Guatemala, the Philippines, Mauritius, Mali and Haiti. Future missions will focus on countries in both Central and South America. Modern information technology and internet based communication platforms will be utilized to improve healthcare delivery.
