

VALLEY DENTAL
ARTS

Dear Dr. Smith,

We understand your professional commitment to the most impressive results begins with partners who are as passionate about elevating the art of restorative, cosmetic dentistry as you are.

It is our pleasure to share the attached story, one that we believe is an excellent example of collaboration. It reminds us of why, after 39 years in this industry, we still have a passion for perfection in all that we do.

Robin Jay, Editor in Chief of Opulence magazine in South Florida, first encountered Valley Dental Arts in a serendipitous meeting that resulted in a smile adventure that would change her life. It is the journey that many patients take as they consider a smile makeover.

Whether it is framing a smile with highly skilled periodontal plastic surgery that Dr. Gottesman performed, or the desire to make certain that Robin Jay's restored teeth were both lifelike and natural, it is all part of the artistry Dr. Windmiller applies in all of his cases.

"The location of my practice and my lab is of great benefit to me," said Dr. Windmiller, "but I know that Valley Dental Arts treats each case with special care, whether it is across the street or across the country. You will not find a finer laboratory than Valley Dental Arts."

In the ever-evolving art of restorative, cosmetic dentistry we dedicate ourselves to supporting your practice with state-of-the-art materials, crafted by dental technicians and ceramists who know their work is an integral part of your work.

We invite you to read Robin Jay's story and to consider our lab for your next case. Simple or complex, routine or challenging, you will find the results are the perfect compliment to your skill and artistry.

Kindest regards,

Chuck Maragos, CDT
